

Natural Gas Solutions Overview

Natural gas markets are globalizing as pipelines expand, liquid natural gas (LNG) capacity increases, and world demand for natural gas continues to soar. Risk managers across industrial, commercial and residential sectors need solutions that deliver transparency, compliance, and decision making tools for increasingly complex portfolios. Whether you engage in the exploration, gathering, processing or consumption of natural gas, Allegro has innovative and comprehensive solutions to address your most challenging problems.

Exploration and Production

Allegro delivers a solution that meets various needs across the entire enterprise – those of gas producers, marketing managers, accounting staff, trading and risk managers. Allegro streamlines accounting and increases revenue generation by improving the efficiency and accuracy of position management, settlement, net valuation, accounting and invoicing.

Gas Gathering and Processing

Allegro maintains complex information based on the producer and shipper and captures gathering pipeline data, points, and cycles. Gas processing may require a variety of services, such as dehydration, contaminant removal and methane separation to remove impurities in raw natural gas. Allegro can address each of these demands with one solution, while managing all components of the gas stream from wellhead to burner tip.

Natural Gas Marketing

Allegro's Natural Gas Marketing solutions help companies ensure that there is an adequate supply of natural gas by providing a real-time conduit to the market. This comprehensive solution supports the buying and selling of physical and financial instruments using comprehensive valuation and simulation tools and connectivity to pricing data and electronic exchanges. In-depth risk reporting, including real-time P&L, VaR, and credit exposure, gives risk managers the information they need to execute quickly and with confidence. Settlement and actualization processes are automated with Allegro's back office functionality.
